

What are you creating today?

What intention is being actively created by the actions I am doing?

There is no such thing as survival. There is only continuing creation. The moment that creation stops is the moment you begin dying.

Get busy living or get busy dying.